Reds In Middle Of New UN Tactic

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A new tactic is being worked out to put the Soviets on the spot in proving the sincerity of their appeals to give a larger voice in U. N. bodies to the new nations of Asia and Africa.

Argentine sources disclosed that Leopoldo H. Tettamanti, Argentine delegate on the General Assembly's Political Committee, will suggest Monday that the assembly vote to amend the U. N. charter so the Economic and Social Council will be expanded from 18 to 24 countries. Most of the extra representation probably would go to Asia and Africa.

Any amendment to the charter can be vetoed by any of the Big Five, including the Soviet Union. For years the Soviets have threatened to veto any expansion of U. N. bodies unless Communist China is seated in the United Nations. As a result, the question has been put off from year to year.

This year Premier Khrushchev told the assembly the United Nations needs to be reorganized to give the neutral nations of Asia and Africa a larger voice. Whether the Soviets have now lifted their veto threat to block any expansion of the U. N. bodies is not known.

Tettamanti plans to appeal to the African and Asian countries, which number 46 out of a total U. N. membership of 99, to push for the amendment in the hope they will influence the Soviet Union.

The Argentine delegation is sure that if the proposal wins solid Asian-African support, it will sail through the assembly. They hope it will then force the Soviets into a position where they could not afford to risk Asian and African friendship by using their veto in the final process of ratification.

Says Ability Of Regulus Underrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Polaris missile submarines have been getting the headlines, but the United States relies heavily also on a little-publicized, seaborne missile force now on station within range of important targets on the Soviet Pacific perimeter.

When the nuclear-powered George Washington puts to sea Nov. 15 with its load of 16 Polaris ballistic weapons, it will give the Atlantic Fleet its first ship-launched offensive missile capability.

On the other side of the world, the Pacific Fleet commander in chief, Adm. John H. Sides, already has deployed a trained and ready striking force formed around five submarines and two cruisers, all carrying nuclear-tipped Regulus missiles.

The range of the Regulus is less than half that of the Polaris, but a glance at the map of the northwestern Pacific readily shows the vulnerability to attack from the sea of Soviet ports on southeast Siberia, the Kurile Islands and on the Kamchatka Peninsula.

This is one reason why the Navy has concentrated all of its Regulus-launching ships in the Pacific.

The Pacific Fleet doesn't look for its first Polaris submarines for several years.

Thwarts Civil War In Kasai

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations announced Sunday it has thwarted an effort of Belgian adventurers to plunge the Congo's Kasai Province into new civil war.

Ghanaian and Liberian U. N. troops with armored cars turned back an onslaught of 5,000 Baluba tribesmen led by white officers, the U. N. command said.

Three Belgian advisers to tribal Chief Albert Kalonji were arrested by the United Nations and flown to Lubumbashi. Also arrested was a white Rhodesian identified only as Capt. Robert.

Indian Gen. I. Rikhye of the United Nations forces told a news conference the four had organized the northward thrust of Baluba tribesmen in violation of a U. N.-imposed truce.

He said the United Nations had proof the Kalonji tribal army was led by white officers. He said the three Belgians posed as traders and businessmen but were the brains behind the massive invasion. He did not identify them.

Rikhye said many persons—including a Roman Catholic missionary—were killed in the initial assault last week. Three villages near Mwene Ditu were burned and four Liberian U. N. soldiers were wounded in an ambush. At Kalindato the advancing Balubas burned a Roman Catholic seminary, forcing about 20 Belgian priests and nuns to flee.

The arrest of the four Europeans was the first such by the United Nations forces in the Congo. It followed by two days new directives to U. N. troops to use their arms to overcome any resistance to the maintenance of law and order.

LONDON (AP) — Ailing actress Elizabeth Taylor moved from her hotel penthouse Sunday night to a lonely sickroom at the London Clinic.

Doctors will give her special treatment for a mystery virus that has sent her temperature soaring. They ordered her to the hospital after 12 days of drug treatment failed to cool her persistent fever.

In a thick fur coat, Miss Taylor was taken into the clinic in a pelling rain by her husband, singer Eddy Fisher.

Driver Fatally Hurt On Route 402

Nixon: 5 Big States Still Up For Grab

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon feels five big states which hold the key to the presidential election still are up for grabs in this final full week of the campaign.

The Republican nominee made his views known to newsmen Sunday as he returned to Washington for what probably will be his last day of rest before Nov. 8.

While he relaxed with his family, his office released a statement on his program for the nation's senior citizens. Among points stressed: "We must encourage more flexible retirement policies and provide more job opportunities for older people who can and want to work."

The five states spotlighted by Nixon are New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois. He rated all of them about 50-50, with the election nine days away.

Going Well
In two other large states, his native California and Texas, he believes his campaign is going well and that he has mounting strength. But he is not claiming either as a cinch at this point.

These seven large states will cast 205 out of the total of 537 electoral votes. The total needed to win is 269.

Nixon's rating of New York as even was somewhat surprising; there is evidence he is trailing in the nation's biggest state.

But he is counting heavily on a massive effort which Republicans will make in the state this week, culminating with a big parade and nationally-televized rally in New York City Wednesday.

But he is counting heavily on a massive effort which Republicans will make in the state this week, culminating with a big parade and nationally-televized rally in New York City Wednesday. Participating will be Nixon and his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, bolstered by President Eisenhower and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

An Emergency Operation Saved Miss Holm's Life

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — had been no argument. She maintains an apartment in New York.

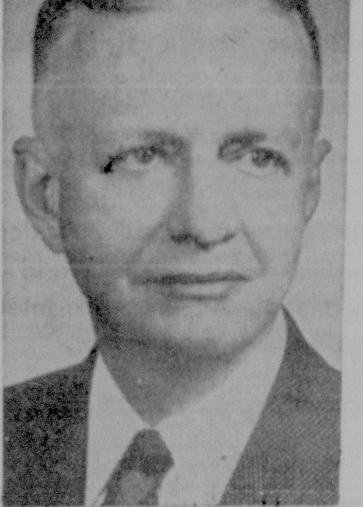

Whalen said Miss Holm knocked on the door of his room and told him she had taken the pills. He said he checked later to see if she had actually taken the barbiturates and found her on the floor. He called an ambulance.

Dardis said he would talk with Miss Holm, one-time Olympic swimming star, "before we will be satisfied on every angle of this incident."

Whalen, 53, formerly of St. Louis, is a former gambling casino operator and part-time night club operator. In a newspaper interview six years ago, Miss Holm was quoted as saying she intended to marry Whalen "just as soon as Tommy gets set in his engineering business."

Whalen told Police Chief Martin Dardis of North Bay Village that Miss Holm, former wife of showman Billy Rose, had been visiting him only five days and that there

16 Gridders Among 22 Dead Search Wreckage For Crash Clues

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Crash experts Sunday examined the twisted wreckage of a plane which was a flaming death trap for nearly half the 35 members of a college football team.

The chartered twin-engine C46 with the California State Polytechnic College (San Luis Obispo) team aboard plunged down Saturday night seconds after take-off in a dense fog at Toledo Express Airport. It snapped in two and burst into flames, snuffing out the lives of 22 of the 48 occupants. Eleven bodies were so badly charred identification was difficult. But authorities said 16 of the 22 victims were players.

Twenty-six other occupants were injured, four seriously. The Arctic Pacific Line plane had just begun a return flight to San Luis Obispo after a game at nearby Bowling Green State University.

Just as we left the ground, the tail seemed to drop, and the plane fell off to the left," said F. Sheldon Harden, an assistant coach.

Harden said the plane started "fishtailing" as it roared down the runway.

"It took off and got up about 100 feet, or maybe it was just 50 or 60 feet," said LeRoy Hughes, 54, California Poly's veteran head coach. "The left motor conked out. Then it spun over—maybe two or three times."

Ball Fire
A ball of fire shot up. But the fog was so thick E. D. Richards in the airport control tower said he could not see the flames 440 yards away.

The blaze swept through the 60-foot front portion where most of the deaths occurred. Federal Aviation Agency Coordinator W. J. Kingston said the impact broke off the 30-foot rear section. Most of the survivors were in the rear.

Kingston said the cause of the tragedy could not be determined until a crew of FAA technicians from Washington finished sifting the wreckage.

Airport personnel were interviewed, and survivors will be questioned later, he said.

"This takes a little while... no body actually saw it," Kingston said.

The FAA, the Civil Aeronautics Board and Ohio highway patrol men were conducting the probe.

Mechanics who serviced the plane before its ill-fated takeoff detected no sign of mechanical trouble, Kingston said.

Team halfback James Fahey, 24, of Gilroy, Calif., said: "We barely got off when the engines started sputtering. Right then I knew something was going to happen. Then the left engine gave out—thump! I ducked my head and saw flames shooting. The bottom went over the top, it flipped over."

Survivors said the stewardess, Mrs. Richard Miller, 34, of Seattle risked her life to help get passengers from the plane. Then, in stocking feet, she instructed rescuers on how to handle the injured.

Mrs. Miller suffered a wrist injury.

"She did a marvelous job," Hughes said from his hospital bed, his head encased in bandages.

"She calmed the people afterward and pointed out whom to help," said Fahey, who suffered a cut above his left eye.

Some 75 Ohio Air National Guardsmen grabbed fire extinguishers and ran to the scene.

A makeshift morgue was set up in the airlines terminal. Ambulances going to the scene were forced to creep through the thick fog and slowly carried the injured to hospitals about 20 miles away in Toledo.

In addition to the 16 players, the dead included the team student manager, an insurance man traveling with the team, and the pilot and copilot. Also killed were two women, believed to be the mother and sister of a crew member.

C. M. Hines Dies After Car Upsets

CHARLES M. Hines, 32, of Stanhope, N.J., died yesterday afternoon in the Monroe County General Hospital of injuries suffered less than 11 hours earlier in an automobile accident one mile north of Marshalls Creek.

Hines, a native of East Stroudsburg, Pa., was traveling alone north on Route 402 about 5:30 a.m. yesterday when the accident occurred in front of the Theodore D. Hoffman residence.

Pinned In Car
The driver was pinned in the overturned car until freed by a wrecking crew and State Police who were called to the scene by the Hoffman family.

Coroner Daniel G. Warner said Hines died at 4:20 p.m. of a massive intercranial hemorrhage, contusions and abrasions of the right forehead and shoulder, lacerations of the right ear and other injuries.

Marks at the scene of the accident indicated Hines' car left the highway on the left side and traveled approximately 120 feet, then came back on the roadway and traveled another 50 feet before careening off again, this time on the right beam.

The car traveled about 75 feet and then upset on the highway, pinning the driver in the wreckage.

B. E. Weber, operator of the tow truck called to the scene, raised the vehicle high enough so Hines could be removed from the car.

Hunting In Area

He had been in the area hunting with his brothers and was en route to the home of his mother, Mrs. Etta Mae Hines, East Stroudsburg, Pa., at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Hines had lived in Stanhope for the past six years where he was employed as a utility man with Roe Vending Machine Co., Whippany, N.J. His prior residence was in the Stroudsburg area. His father was the late John B. Hines.

He was a member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, and a Navy veteran of the Korean War.

In addition to his mother he is survived by his wife, Norma Sherer, at home, four brothers, William L. Hines, Dover, N.J.; Franklin Hines and George Hines, Marshalls Creek; and John Hines, West Gap; four sisters, Mrs. Elfreda Arnold, Saylorsburg; Mrs. Florence Moad, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Muriel Ace, Stroudsburg; and Mrs. Charlotte Van Why, Stroudsburg.

The family released the body to the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home, where services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating. Burial will be in Prospect Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday after 7 p.m.

Castro Checks Support, Recalls Civilian Militia

regime flexed its muscles with a huge concentration of civilian militiamen in Havana Sunday while at the opposite end of the Cuban island nearly 1,500 U.S. Marines enjoyed a weekend of recreation ashore in another demonstration of strength.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's supporters termed the visit of the Marines to Guantanamo Bay Naval Base fresh "provocation and aggression." U.S. authorities said it was just a weekend of liberty ashore for a highly trained Marine assault force which had spent four weeks at sea.

They added, however, that the visit could be taken as a strong hint to Castro that help is not far off if he should be tempted to attack the big American base. The Marines will sail away Monday morning after 48 hours ashore.

They went to church in relays Sunday and kept 20 baseball diamonds, 6 swimming pools, and a 27-hole golf course busy.

In Havana, thousands upon thousands of militiamen, sworn to defend Castro's regime with their blood, were summoned from their beds at 7 a.m. for what the newspaper El Mundo called "orientation in view of the existing situation."

Cuban officials estimated 200,000 turned out through the city.

In other Cuban developments: Newspapers condemned war criminals and the United States for Saturday's shooting aboard a Cuban airliner which was diverted from the Isle of Pines to Key West with its military guard dead and several aboard wounded. The papers complained that American immigration and other authorities gave nine of the Cubans who sought asylum in the United States "every class of attention."

Following up a blast by a student leader, Maj. Rolando Cubela, at President Ramon Betancourt of Venezuela, Communist leader Blas Roca took up the cudgels against the Venezuelan government.

"The repression in Venezuela resulted from a plot of Yankee imperialists with their political lackeys in Venezuela to smash the movement of solidarity with Cuba," Blas Roca wrote in Sunday's issue of the party organ, Hoy. Cubela had called Betancourt a traitor.

A diplomatic break with Venezuela seemed near.

1,000 Grads Return For Homecoming

HOMEcoming Day at ESSC was the best ever.

The largest crowd ever assembled, coupled with a fun-packed program, characterized the best Homecoming Day at East Stroudsburg State College's history on Saturday.

Almost 1,000 graduates returned to the campus for the various festivities presented throughout the day. An informal gathering in Stroud Hall, around the serving of coffee and donuts, got the activities under way.

Christine Turnbull, of Women's Recreation Assn., was selected as Homecoming Day campus queen. The announcement was made during the intermission of East Stroudsburg-Bloomsburg football game.

Open house of the new buildings on campus was of special interest also. The campus has been undergoing a building program and now claims one of the best library buildings in the area.

Two major athletic events also caused the graduates excitement. The Warriors' soccer team, under John Eller, clipped a strong Lock Haven team 3 to 0. The grid eleven of coach Jack Gregory kept the crowds happy also by pulling an upset over previously undefeated Bloomsburg. The Warriors came from behind to gain a 21-20 victory.

The after-game coffee hour in Shawnee Hall was well attended.

The only scheduled group activity reunion was that of the newly-formed Ten-Year Club.

At 4:30 p.m., the board of directors of Alumnae met and held a business meeting and at 6 p.m. a special buffet supper was held in the college dining room for the graduates with entertainment by the College Combo.

The musicians were led by Brian Clifford, presently student teaching.

Assisting in the arrangements are Paul Hay of the Portland-Upper and Lower Mt. Bethel District and Robert Budge, chairman of the Pen Argyl, Wind Gap and Plainfield Township area.

Mountainhome Dedicates Postoffice

By ROBERT CLARK
Daily Record City Editor
MOUNTAINHOME, Conn. Francis E. Walter cited the co-operation of government and citizens in a dedication speech at the official opening of the new Mountainhome Postoffice here Saturday.

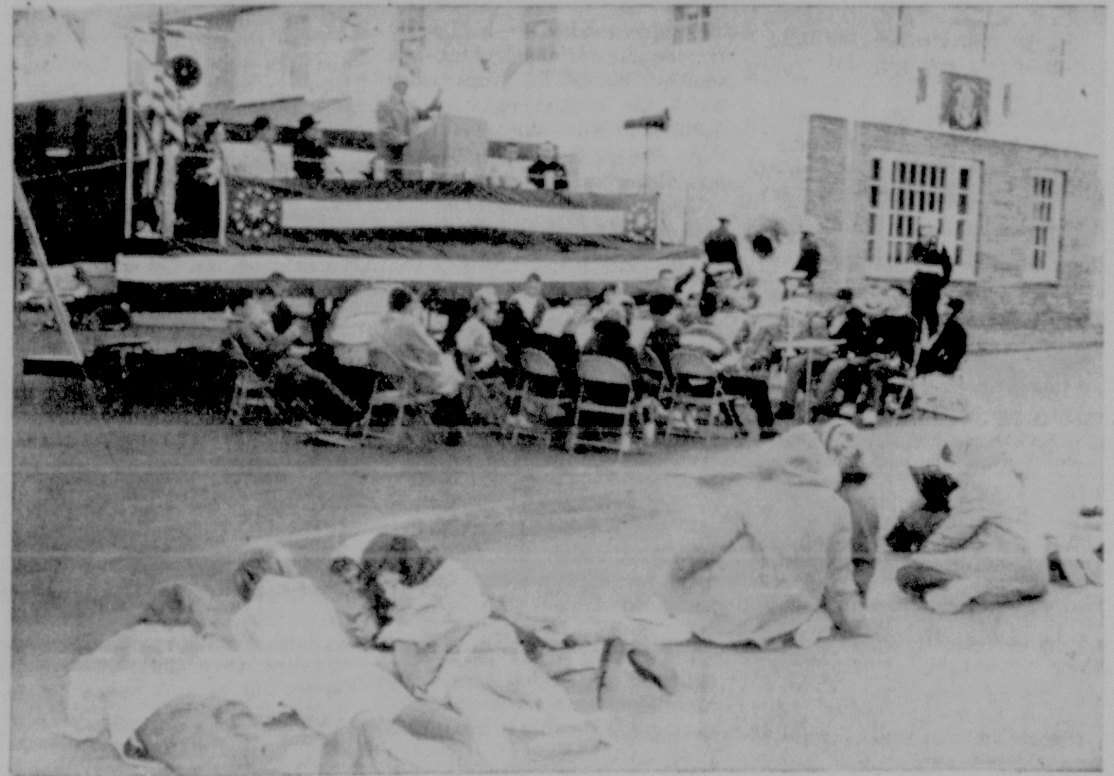

The Eastern Democrat who represents Monroe, Carbon, and Northampton counties in the United States House said, "We are all partners in this memorable occasion. It is strictly a project that had the well being of the community, local, state and federal governments."

Walter went on to point out that there are many foes "internally and externally who would attempt to destroy such a venture as this beautiful mark of achievement."

The veteran area representative blasted the actions of Khrushchev at the recent United Nations Assembly in New York. "His actions were disgusting," Walter said.

Bloom Doubts Correctness Of Lackawanna Figures

HALESBURG (AP)—Republican State Chairman George E. Bloom said Sunday unofficial voter registration figures from the state's 65 other counties—which last week put Democrats ahead of Republicans in registrations for the first time in Pennsylvania history.

It was the unofficial results from Lackawanna—plus official registration figures from the state's 65 other counties—which last week put Democrats ahead of Republicans in registrations for the first time in Pennsylvania history.

The Lackawanna results gave Democrats 97,825 registrants to the Republicans' 50,601 with 609 registered with the minor parties and as independents.

In a statement Bloom said of the Lackawanna results:

"It must be borne in mind that Lackawanna County was the last county in the state to report its so-called final figures, nearly two weeks behind every other county. That fact alone opens them to suspicion."

"Can it be that the figures were deliberately held back until it could be ascertained how many Democratic registrations would be needed to make it appear that the Democrats have passed the Republicans in the total number of eligible voters?"

The Lackawanna tabulation—which still must be certified by the State Elections Bureau to be official—put Democrats ahead of Republicans in registrations by 2-965.

Bloom made public a telegram from Ernest J. Gazda, GOP campaign manager in Lackawanna, in which the latter challenged the validity of the registration totals.

Gazda's telegram noted that the county registration commission's purge of voters' lists had removed 10,568 names. But he said "there are at least that many more names that should be cancelled."

The Lackawanna County GOP leader said the final figures didn't jibe with U.S. census findings, adding:

Lackawanna County's 1960 census population is 233,271. The normal eligible voting percentage, as estimated by the U.S. Census Bureau, is about 60 per cent of a county's total population. Applying this percentage to the 1960 census of Lackawanna County the maximum eligible number of voters for Lackawanna would be 139,963. The commission reports 149,125 or almost 10,000 more than the possible maximum number of eligible voters."

Burglaries Investigated By Police

STRODSBURG Police yesterday continued their investigation of the burglaries of the Palace Diner and Frisbie Lumber Co.

Both entries were made between 2 a.m. and opening time Saturday, investigating officers said.

At the diner, the burglars took $80 in cash from its hiding place in a cooler in the tavern portion of the building, and from a container in the kitchen.

Police said entry was gained by removing a pane of glass from a door in the rear of the building.

The thieves who entered the Frisbie Lumber Co. office pried open a window on the east side of the building to gain entry and then conducted what police termed "a very orderly search of the office."

Drawers and cabinets were opened but nothing was taken. The burglars left by a door on the west side of the building.

Seeks Nuclear Arms

LONDON (AP)—Western diplomats predict Mao Tse-tung will go to Moscow this week ready to insist the Soviet Union provide nuclear weapons for Communist China.

Walter lauded the wise policies of Postmaster General Summerfield. He referred specifically to the program set up by the head of the Post Office Department whereby small and rural communities are aided immensely.

Walter finished his brief remarks by presenting a new 50-star Flag to Mountainhome's postmaster, Mrs. Mabelle Green.

In the presentation, the congressman said "this represents a symbol of the republic and is a beacon of the world. May it wave proudly and forever."

David Skillman, Easton attorney and resident of Barrett Twp. for many years, introduced Walter. Skillman and the congressman are long-time friends having started their careers in the freshman class at Lafayette College 50 years ago.

Robert Brown, of Allentown, field service officer, United States Post Office Department, officially dedicated the new post office. He represented Postmaster Summerfield at the ceremonies.

Brown, who governs 211 offices in nine counties, listed the achievements under Summerfield's command and pointed out that his department performs the greatest service to mankind.

"The aim of our program," Brown said, "is to give better mail service at less cost and to make the delivery next day anywhere in the country."

Mrs. Green thanked all who cooperated in making the new postoffice possible.

Stanley Bender, a member of the Board of Supervisors, welcomed the guests and some 200 onlookers.

Harold Kreeck was chairman of the ceremonies and also acted as master of ceremonies.

Rev. John S. Carter, Methodist Church, Mountainhome, gave the invocation and Rev. Robert Galligan, Pocono Catholic Missions, offered the benediction.

Harry Laurence Shinnen, a student at Barrett High School, gave the "Ode to the American Flag," and the Toboyanna Signal Corps Color Guard participated in the raising of the colors.

Music was provided by the Barrett School Band under the direction of Russell E. Speicher. The program committee was composed of Rev. Carter; Rev. William F. Cusick, Pocono Catholic Missions; Kreeck, Barrett Lions; Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullen; John A. Reinhardt Jr.; Norbert Ryan; Victor Shankweiler; Mrs. Lena Swaine; Barrett Women's Club; George Webb, Barrett Twp. School; Henry W. Weidave Jr., Evans-Blitz Post, American Legion; Karl E. Weiler, Pocono Mountains Rotary Club; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Barrett YMCA.

Pilots Converge At Pocono Field

"ONE of the greatest sights I have ever seen," George Colovos, owner-manager of High Point Inn, said as he detailed the arrival of 38 private airplanes at Pocono Mountains Airport yesterday.

The planes were a conglomeration of individual pilots and their families—about 100 in all—who held a breakfast-meeting at the Inn. The pilots were all members of Central Jersey Pilots Assn.

Dr. Swithin Chandler, of Trenton and president of Flying Physicians Club, headed the group. He arranged for the meeting about two weeks ago, but Colovos never dreamed of the great aerial invasion.

"They kept coming, and coming and coming," he said. Colovos reported that he thought about four or maybe five planes were due to land when the reservation was arranged.

"Beautiful Field" "All the pilots expressed delight at the beautiful airport as they emerged from the planes," Colovos reported. He said that the travelers were quoted as "really surprised to see such a beautiful airport."

Others in the association were George Pierson, president of the Flying Shriners, and business and professional people from Staten Island, N.Y., New York City, Palmyra, N.J.; Yardley, Pa.; Princeton, Woodbury, Gratsboro, Florence, N.J.; Philadelphia, Jenkintown, Pa., Wilmington, Del., and other areas in northeast U.S.

"A lot of good will was created yesterday," Colovos stated, "because the pilots expressed a desire to come back again," he said.

The planes arrived about 10 a.m., and departed about 1 p.m. About every type of small plane imaginable was included in the squadron, Colovos reported.

Dengler Breaks Arm Posting Signs At Airport

LEROY DENGLE, president of Mount Pocono Airport Authority, greeted a group of visiting pilots at the Pocono Mountains Airport yesterday despite a fractured arm received on Saturday.

Dengler was posting "no hunting signs along the edges of the airport when he caught his foot in some snow fencing and fell. He suffered a fractured arm between the elbow and shoulder.

Car Hits W. Main Barricade

STRODSBURG Police investigated an accident of Robert Ludwig, 20, of East Stroudsburg RD 3, Saturday at 1:43 a.m. when he crashed through a barricade and ran into a section of highway being torn up, just inside the Stroudsburg Borough limits.

Ludwig was alone in the car. He was not injured.

Police said he was traveling east on W. Main St. at the time. They listed damages at $36 to property of J. H. Beers, Inc., contractor, and $150 to the Ludwig car.

A charge of driving too fast for conditions will be preferred against Ludwig, police said.

Missing Woman Found On Road

A WOMAN, missing from Stroud Township, was found yesterday at 2:30 p.m. on the new Stroudsburg Turnpike, near LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery in South Stroudsburg.

She was returned to her home and was reported by the Stroud Township police to be in good condition after being away from home over-night.

Protestants Hear Anti-Bigotry Plea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some Protestants heard anti-Catholicism from the pulpit Sunday, but many others heard pleas against bigotry as millions observed Reformation Sunday in their churches.

In a large number of Protestant churches worshippers heard no mention of Catholicism or the presidential campaign in which the Roman Catholic religion of Democratic candidate John F. Kennedy has become an issue.

The observance of the birthday of Protestantism—Martin Luther's 93 theses issued Oct. 31, 1517—is held annually under the auspices of the National Council of Churches.

It had been reported that many Protestant ministers might use the occasion to continue their attack on the idea of a Catholic president.

400 Attend Service In Stroudsburg

MORE THAN 400 people attended the special Reformation Sunday services last night in the Stroudsburg Methodist Church. The sermon was delivered by Rev. David Dunn, professor of church history at Lancaster Theological Seminary.

Rev. Dunn spoke of the main points of the Reformation pointing out the belief in God and the belief in faith in Christ to save men.

In another reference to the Reformation he pointed out the difference in the meaning of the word "protest," comparing its present day use with the days of the Reformation.

"Protest in days gone by meant to affirm one's belief, but today it has a negative meaning. In the days of Luther a person would say 'I protest my love for my family.' This meant he had much love for his family, but today it would mean that he had little or no love for them," said Rev. Dunn.

Throughout the entire sermon there was no mention made of politics, candidates or the religion of the candidates. It was a service to observe the birthday of Protestantism, which began Oct. 31, 1517.

The program was sponsored by the Monroe County Ministerium Association.

Small Sects

Most of these, strangely enough, are in the small, fundamentalist sects of Southern fragments of major denominations who do not belong to the 40-million-member National Council and have generally ignored the Reformation Sunday observance in the past.

Dr. W.A. Criswell, of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., who has been outspoken in the anti-Catholic drive, made no mention of the controversy Sunday. Earlier he had said that Southern Baptists do not observe Reformation Sunday.

The political controversy also was ignored at Washington's National Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. Donald McLeod of Princeton Theological Seminary preached a Reformation Sunday sermon to a congregation that included President Eisenhower.

In Greenville, S.C., however, Dr. Bob Jones Sr. said in a sermon to the student body of Bob Jones University that "good Protestants don't want any man in the White House who is obligated to any one except the American people."

"When the Pope speaks as the head of the Catholic Church, his voice is the same to a good Catholic as the voice of God," he said.

Cigarette Sets Fire To Hedge

STROUD Township firemen were called yesterday at 5:10 p.m. to fight a hedge fire at the home of George Ockershausen along route 611, Arlington Heights.

A passing motorist stopped at the intersection of Bridge St. and Route 611 to tell Assistant Chief of Police Lester Rice, "See that smoke up the road? Well, I don't think those people want to burn their hedge down."

The alarm was turned in and Rice went to the scene of the fire and had it extinguished before the fire trucks arrived.

Rice said the fire was caused by someone throwing a lighted cigarette from a passing car.

Hasty decisions at a time of sorrow makes clear thinking extremely difficult. Avoid this by making your selection now.

Taxpayer Defined

"What is a taxpayer?" asks Public Management Magazine, a publication circulating among municipal, state and federal employees. Then it answers its own question in this fashion:

"A taxpayer is the most important person to enter this building, in person, by mail or by telephone."

"A taxpayer is not dependent on us—on the contrary we are dependent on him."

"A taxpayer is not an interruption of our work—he is the purpose of it."

"We are not doing him a favor by serving him—he is doing us a favor by giving us an opportunity to do so."

"A taxpayer is not an outsider in our work—he is part of it."

"A taxpayer is not a cold statistic—he is a flesh-and-blood human being with feelings and emotions like our own."

"A taxpayer is not someone to argue or match wits with. Nobody ever won an argument with a taxpayer."

"A taxpayer is a person who brings us his problems. It is our job to handle them in such a way as to be beneficial to him and to ourselves."

Here's a definition for public employees to remember. It is worth clipping.

Next time you encounter one of those public servants who behaves as though you are a nuisance he can hardly stand, or act as though his public job permits him to push you around, hand him the clipping and let him read what his own "house organ" has to say about the people who foot the bills.

The Pennsylvania Story

State Offices

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — It is fitting perhaps that in this week preceding the Nov. 8 general election this column continues the "parade of candidates" with a concluding series of guest columnists.

The "columnists" who will take over "The Pennsylvania Story" for the remainder of the week will be the candidates for State Auditor General and State Treasurer—Pennsylvania's only statewide elective fiscal offices.

The writings on the part of the fiscal candidates will complete a series of guest columns that will have included all of the candidates for statewide office this year—plus guestings by the two presidential candidates themselves.

As in the past, what each has to say will be presented in his (or her) own words as expressly written for this column, without benefit of editorial blue pencil or any changes whatsoever at this end.

This column has one sidebar observation to offer on these candidate writings: the manner in which each presents his guest writing is a personalization of the guest writer himself! . . .

Mirror of Time

—by J. D. Shafer

10 Years Ago

Green-Dreher Fire Company was called to fight a small, woodland fire that caught fire from someone burning leaves nearby. The fire was confined to about one acre.

Three Red Chinese divisions were stopped by the U. S. 24th Division as the Reds tried to move south in Korea.

Thousands of Monroe County residents lined Main St., Stroudsburg, to view the Halloween Parade between the two boroughs.

Residents of Delaware Water Gap revived "The Home Front" a publication mailed to the service men telling them what was happening back home.

20 Years Ago

It was predicted by a public office holder in Monroe County that the county would carry Roosevelt by 1,500 to 2,000 votes.

Monroe County Commissioners packed the ballots and other election for delivery to the places of election in Monroe County.

Monroe County PTA was awarded the Carter Cup by the Pennsylvania Congress of PTA. The award is based on the highest percentage in increased membership.

Plans for a mock election go underway in Stroudsburg High School with pupils being assigned to wards, offices and clerks of elections.

Missing are the facades of professional protectionism that ordinarily screen statewide candidates for public office . . . It is a sideneed seemingly well worth noting.

Curiously, the two offices are perhaps as little known as any in Pennsylvania, and yet in constitutional theory they are the true "watchdogs" of government spending for Pennsylvania's taxpayers—spending which today runs into the billions of dollars rather than the millions of a comparatively short time ago.

Terms of office for both posts are four years and are filled each quadrennial presidential election year. Usually, the two fiscal offices are filled by those candidates whose party affiliation corresponds with that of the presidential candidate carrying the state.

This is one reason of course why these offices oftentimes are referred to as "coat-tail offices"—the winners almost invariably riding the coat-tails of the successful presidential candidate.

In fact within the space of the past half-century there was only one exception to this "rule"—and that occurred in 1912 when Democratic Presidential candidate Woodrow Wilson carried Pennsylvania with a plurality of 122,277 while the Republican candidate for Auditor General A. W. Powell well wound up with a plurality of 239,244 and Republican candidate for State Treasurer R. K. Young managed a plurality of 193,890.

Interestingly, the post of State Auditor General until 1912 was a three-year office and that of State Treasurer a two-year term. In fact from 1777 to 1873, Pennsylvania's State Treasurer was elected by the General Assembly.

It is perhaps significant to note that for the most part since 1912 when the two state fiscal offices went on a four-year tenure basis, Pennsylvania has been consistently a heavy Republican state, the exceptions being the presidential elections of 1936, 1940 and 1944 when the state went Democratic. In those three elections, the fiscal offices also fell into Democratic hands.

Today Pennsylvania is no longer considered a strong or "Safe" Republican state. In this election it is quite definitely a nip-and-tuck affair for the first time. On Nov. 8 the presidential electoral college may or may not swing the fiscal posts.

Since 1856 there have been only five Democratic Auditor General State Treasurers. Is the pattern destined to change in 1960? For the next four days the candidates for these two offices speak their pieces in this column. Which of the candidates should gain the nod at the polls a week from tomorrow?

Veteran's Guide

Q. I am going to need an operation for a non-service-connected condition and expect to be admitted to a VA hospital soon. Meanwhile, there must be X-ray and other examinations before my operation. Can they be taken care of before I go into the hospital, in order to shorten my hospital stay?

A. They can, by a law which has just been passed. Non-service-connected cases, formerly ineligible for this benefit, may now be given necessary clinical examinations before they enter a VA hospital, as well as clinical care after it is no longer necessary for them to occupy a hospital bed.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

The Golden Girls

"Brigitte Bardot," this columnist recently reported, "is gnawed by self-doubt, fear and a constant mass of anxieties. She is Eve in a Garden of Thorns."

The recent melancholy headlines confirmed the foregoing. Actually, Miss Bardot has never been able to reconcile an inner conflict: A woman's body burdened with a child's emotions. She has the naive and temper tantrums of a child. She plays with teddy bears, is a rockroll fan and seems to serve the cult of perpetual immaturity. Miss Bardot once exclaimed: "One day I will be Brigitte Bardot, the impossible dream of married men!"

To a large extent her dream came true. And in the end, the dream made reality an impossible nightmare.

Brigitte, of course, is not the only movie queen who discovered that success is replete with false promises. Ava Gardner, Vivien Leigh, Ingrid Bergman, Liz Taylor, Kim Novak, Marilyn Monroe—and many others—found their crowns more burdensome than glorious. . . . When Garbo reigned in Hollywood she found relief from the pressures by sitting alone in a room for hours and just moaning and moaning. . . . Miss Monroe has never convinced herself that she is a star. Before facing the camera, her hands tremble, she breaks out in skin rashes and can barely speak. MM confesses she is haunted by fears and must constantly be reassured.

One of Miss Monroe's intimates has written: "People close to her were amazed by her withdrawal, lack of enthusiasm and shunning all the duties of stardom. And I know the answer. Fear. Dread of failure, fear of not being liked. She came to the movies with those fears, and despite years of psychiatric treatment, they had increased."

More often than not the Golden Girls find stardom a pinwheel existence—bright but dizzying. Lana Turner has grimly pointed out that "it's always been a rat race getting on top, staying there and being lucky enough to hold on."

Judy Garland is another who discovered that stardom is more of a mirage than a twinkling fairyland. For years she was tortured by private devils. Her heartaches provided fodder for countless headlines and magazine articles. She once confessed: "Problems have been the story of my life. I was always lonely. The only time I felt accepted and wanted was when I was on the stage performing."

Perhaps Miss Garland has now matured. In a recent interview she declared: "I no longer expect things around me to be perfect or ever to be perfectly satisfied with myself. I used to have absurd pictures of what life ought to be like, and when it didn't go along that way I'd go to pieces."

Movie queens have become universal symbols of radiant beauty. Nevertheless, the public image frequently clashes with their private world. A world of fear and frustration and sacrifice. . . . During World War II Carole Landis toured overseas and was adored by thousands of Yanks.

The Allen-Scott Report

Nuclear Tests To Resume

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Eisenhower is ordering a resumption of nuclear weapons tests in February.

The still incomplete schedule calls for six or eight of these experimental "shots" of new nuclear warheads and other arms; they will be conducted underground; and will take place at the Nevada proving grounds.

Official announcement of the President's decision will be made shortly after the Nov. 8 election.

Leaders of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee have been advised of this.

They have also been informed the President plans to discuss this momentous decision with his successor—the President-elect.

Slated to participate in this White House conference, around Nov. 17, are Secretary of State Christian Herter, Defense Secretary Thomas Gates, Atomic Commission Chairman John Mc-

Cone, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

It was on their strong recommendations that the President determined to launch preparations for a new series of underground nuclear weapons tests.

In authorizing that, the President left two doors open to call them off.

An agreement in the next several months on nuclear weapons control by the U. S., Britain and Russia at the protracted conference in Geneva. In the event of such an accord before the President leaves office on January 20, he is prepared to shelve the new tests.

The new President could cancel these "shots" after he takes office. The contemplated weapons experiments will not get underway until sometime in February, and the new President will have ample time to act on them.

Foremost among the new weapons programmed in these tests are:

An improved warhead for the Polaris, the intermediate range solid-fuel ballistic missile the Navy has developed for nuclear-powered submarines; a multi-megaton warhead for the Minuteman, the Air Force's still-untested solid-fuel inter-continental ballistic missile; and an atomic depth shell that can be fired from a relatively small caliber gun.

The strong belief in high quarters that Russia has been secretly testing was a decisive factor in the President's judgment to prepare for a new round of underground tests early next year.

The Central Intelligence Agency has submitted a number of reports on the Soviet's reputed secret tests.

This information includes photographs by U-2 reconnaissance planes indicating preparations for tests at known Russian proving centers, and reports by European scientists of heavy underground Soviet explosions, some of them while certain of these scientists were visiting in Russia.

The CIA also obtained significant confirming information from Iron Curtain sources.

This country's voluntary abstention from nuclear weapons tests will be two years old tomorrow—Nov. 1. In 1958, President Eisenhower announced such experiments would be suspended for one year. The Kremlin issued a similar statement.

Last November, the President continued the ban but reserved the right to resume testing at any time. In the event that was decided on, he stated it would be announced officially in advance. That is what he now intends to do soon after the November election.

Fallout — Navy and Intelligence authorities believe Russia now has three nuclear-powered missile-firing submarines. At present, all these secretly-built vessels are based in Western Russia. . . . The Atomic Commission already has tunnels and shafts available for underground weapons tests at the Nevada proving grounds. AEC Chairman McCone has told the President these experiments can easily be started by February.

McCone says there is no reliable information on Red China's nuclear weapons capabilities. Asked for his statement on that by the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, he replied, "I have no estimate on the matter. With the exception of France, I know of no other country that is making progress in this field. We can only assume Red China is working on this, but I have no knowledge whatsoever on the state of their development."

Inside You And Yours

Hack A Help

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

That annoying cough you usually get with a cold, helps protect you from bronchitis and pneumonia.

As soon as mucus starts to drip down your air passages natural compresses send air blowers to work to remove it. A cough is nothing more than a jet of compressed air.

Although it lasts only a second or two, each cough involves a series of complicated well-coordinated maneuvers.

First, you take a deep breath. Then your chest muscles tighten to force out air, but your closed vocal cords keep it trapped in the lungs.

A tremendous pressure builds up just as it does in a tube of toothpaste squeezed with the cap still on.

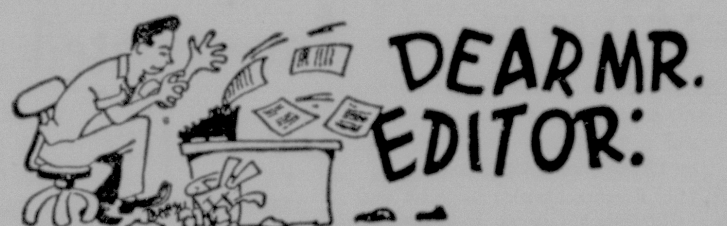

Visible Symptoms

Your face turns reddish purple, while the veins stand out on your neck and forehead. Sometimes a tear or two is squeezed from your eye. Before too much pressure builds up, your vocal-cord safety valve opens and a blast of air gushes out.

As this blast of wind roars up the air passages, it carries everything in its path, including the obstructing mucus. Repeated gusts of air gradually raise this mucus until it reaches your mouth and you can spit it out.

Although every newborn baby coughs automatically, children don't "spit out." Until they're about seven years old, they swallow coughed-up material into their stomachs and intestines where it does no harm. Because they don't spit out, you may mistake their hacks and barfs for "useless" non-productive coughs.

These non-productive coughs are the ill winds which blow

Dear Mr. Editor:

The veterans' organizations we represent would be most appreciative if you would publish the enclosed letter, which is addressed to the local candidates for the General Assembly.

Q. My minor child was not eligible for benefits when his real father died because he was living with and being supported by his stepfather, my present husband. Do the 1960 amendments change that in any way?

A. Yes. A child can now always be paid on his natural father's earnings record, even though living with and supported by a stepfather.

Q. I have read the questions in this series, but didn't find the question I'd like answered. How can I get the information I want?

A. Contact your local social security office, or see their representative when he is in your area.

Q. My father works in my store (or on my farm). When do I start reporting his wages for social security credit?

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Gold Currency

For several years now, the subject of gold has been discussed in this column. As far back as 1933, I have been writing about the peril of fiat money, and what interested me most about the London Economic Conference held in that year was that whereas it was called with the hope of stabilizing the currencies of the world, Franklin D. Roosevelt, by personal fiat, in company with Henry Morgenthau, Jr., wrecked the Conference, and forced the nations of the world to abandon hope for a stabilized currency.

Since then, fiat money has been current and whereas the dollar grew in confidence throughout the world, it was supported mostly in the American economy and therefore had to fluctuate accordingly.

The gold stock of the United States in 1932 was $4,226,000,000. Gold at that time was valued at $20.67 per fine ounce. In January 1934, the private ownership of gold was forbidden except for certain manufacturing and commercial purposes.

So, by 1935, the gold stock of the United States rose to $10,125,000,000 and gold was legally valued at $35 per fine ounce.

In 1941, when the United States went into World War II, the gold stock had risen to $22,737,000,000. On October 25, 1960, the gold stock was $18,581,383,570. From 1940 to 1958, the gold stock of the United States was never under $20,000,000,000; usually, it was in a range of $21 billion to $24 billion.

The earmarked gold during this period fluctuated from $1 billion to $6 billion. By earmarked gold is meant gold which is in the possession of the Treasury of the United States but is actually the property of someone else and which may be withdrawn under certain circumstances.

At present, the earmarked gold in the United States Treasury is for all practical purposes about equal to the gold stocks. Granted that arrangements have been made to avoid the withdrawal of earmarked gold, such arrangements are always dependent upon confidence in the Administration and in the general economy of the country.

The Russians announced last spring that they would issue a gold rouble for commercial purposes in October. Other reports gave next January as the date. Soviet Russia unquestionably possesses between $9 billion and $10 billion of gold.

Franz Pick, an important authority on the subject of gold, early this year, indicated that "the gold position of the dollar is rather uneasy."

He said this when Treasury officials and Wall Street bankers were giving the public to believe that everything was all right.

Actually, gold has remained "the only international measuring rod for currency stability." Other countries were building their gold reserves and were deeply concerned that the United States continued to buy gold at $35 an ounce which is a wrong price from two standpoints: (1) That other nations were willing to pay more; and (2) That American gold miners could not afford to mine the metal at that price and were actually put out of business by their own government. Meanwhile, Soviet Russia continued to mine gold.

In the United States, the price of gold is fixed at $35 an ounce. In London, Zurich and Amsterdam, free gold markets exist where trading occurs without restriction.

During the past fortnight the price of gold has been rising in the London market until it reached $41 for a fine ounce of gold. The buyers who are making this attractive market do not disclose themselves.

However, as the value of the dollar goes down, the price of gold goes up automatically in a free market, but not in the United States where the price of gold is rigidly controlled. On the other hand, it is quite possible that Soviet Russia is monkeying with the price of gold as part of a Cold War operation to destroy the economy of the United States.

If the United States has to devalue the dollar to meet the rising price of gold, our economy may suffer severely during the next year.

At a time when many Americans choose to ignore the significance of gold in the general structure of a nation's economy, most of the principal nations are moving back to a gold basis for currency.

It would be an economic calamity if the Russian rouble became a hard currency and the American dollar a soft one. It could mean that our prices would be so high as to kill off trade altogether.

Just Between Us --

Whatever happened to that hour we were supposed to get back at the end of Daylight Saving Time? If yours was anything like mine, it was like an extra dollar in your pocket; spent before you really had it.

Coming back from the Soroptimists Convention at the Manor, I thought comfortably "It's really not midnight," and settled myself happily to spend the hour I didn't have yet in such unnecessary things as watching the late show and working an acoustic.

Consequently, I got to bed later than I would have even on DST. I hope you got more value for your hour than I did. Although I don't know, there were a lot of things I had to think over about the Soroptimists that would have kept me awake anyway.

The local representatives looked pretty good, I'll tell you. At the speaker's table, Violet Price had on a sort of toast-colored lace and Marguerite Clarkson a soft blue, and Catherine Reimard, who presided, was in peacock blue brocade with glitter.

The rest of them, scattered around the room, I couldn't keep track of but they didn't look as if they'd been working like niggers to make the convention a success. The members had even made the dinner favors, cases for those pocket packs of facial tissues, out of felt and rick-rack.

And the entranceway looked sort of like a Junior Prom with all the corsage boxes piled up. They broke up elixirs and clubs for the dinner by having the guests choose a leaf on which their table was numbered. Which reminds me, it was a wonderful dinner, but no matter how much I eat I continue to get hungry on Daylight Saving Time.

Local Soroptimists Active In Conference At Manor

Monroe County Soroptimists with 51 percent of their members present for the district conference of the North Atlantic region held at Pocono Manor this weekend had a large part to play in the success of the conference.

With the Easton Club they were hosts to about 300 women, including the Venture Club members, Junior clubs sponsored by Soroptimists.

Violet Hallett Price, Cr. sec. was chairman of the district meeting with Miss Bessie Frank- enfield of Easton as co-chairman.

Catherine Reimard, president of the Monroe County Club, presided at the dinner which highlighted the Saturday sessions and served as toastmaster. She presented gifts to Mrs. Helen E. Heydrick of Philadelphia district director and regional Governor Jane Smith.

Entertaining on Friday night was Violet Clark Eddy, East Stroudsburg sculptress, who exhibited her masks and told something of their history. The programs, placecards and seating leaves were made by special classes in the local schools. The jewelry presented to the guests of honor had been made by Sybil Michener of Barrett. Marguerite Clarkson was in charge of reservations.

The dinner was climaxed with an entertainment presented by Frances Homer in the auditorium at the Manor who in her one-woman theater portrayed in turn many characters including a Sunday School teacher, a modern grandmother, and a period piece in three acts centered around a shawl.

A reception with singing and refreshments followed her entertainment.

The session closed with a General Assembly yesterday morning.

With the hostess clubs not entered in competition, the Bucks County Soroptimists with 49 per cent of its members at the conference won the attendance award.

1st World Community Day For County Friday Night

"Christian Action for Freedom" will be the theme for the second annual World Community Day, sponsored by the Monroe County Council of United Church Women, to be held at the Zion United Church of Christ in Stroudsburg at 8 p.m. on Friday, November 4.

Dr. Otis H. Shao, Associate Professor of Political Science at Moravian College in Bethlehem, will be the speaker. He is chairman of the board of directors of the Lehigh Valley Foreign Policy Association. Dr. Shao was born in Shanghai, China, and was educated in schools established by American missions. In 1946 he was graduated from St. John's University, an Episcopal school and three years later came to this country, where he earned graduate degrees from the University of Colorado and Brown University. He is a member of the First Baptist Church of Providence, R.I. He and his wife are currently Danforth Associates whose functions are to stimulate student and faculty interest in the question of religion in higher education.

This year's theme was chosen because it was held imperatively by the National Council of Church Women to meet the new forces that threaten survival in this decade of decision. It is necessary that citizens understand that they can help shape United States' and United Nations' peace policies.

All church groups are asked to bring their medical kits to this meeting. Medical kits, assembled according to directions sent to each participating church group, are the project for this year. The supplies will be used for rural areas in the following countries: Ethiopia, Nigeria, Chile and Burma. Women in these countries are being trained to give first aid in areas where there is a great lack of medical services. The supplies from the kits will be used by these women. Each group bringing a kit is asked to supply the postage of 8 cents per pound.

Mrs. Joseph N. Carr is chairman of the World Community Day. Assisting her will be Mrs. Roger Stimson, president of the Monroe County Council, Mrs. Alphonse Meyers, Mrs. Sharon Peechatka, Mrs. Harold J. Pine, Jr., Mrs. G. W. Van Campen, Mrs. Frank Sills and Mrs. Loring Cramer.

Refreshments will follow the meeting.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"The Friendly Store" A.B. Wyckoff

Hope you've all stocked up on inexpensive favors and candy from our well-stocked Wyckoff candy department to delight the little hobgoblins of Halloween who will be out tonight in quest of something to gobble. If in doubt as to what to buy, you can always fall back upon that old reliable, Keiller hard candy. It's delicious ... nourishing for the children ... easy to serve because of its individual wrappings, and really quite inexpensive when you realize how many pieces there are in a pound.

Lately I've been trying not to loiter around our candy department ... my conscience is becoming weight conscious. But what a delectable place it is! Occasionally I splurge and buy a box of Russell Stover's Candy Jar Chocolates to satisfy my sweet tooth, and I certainly recommend them to you if you haven't already tried them. The package is shocking pink in color with the clear plastic outline of a candy jar revealing a delightful mixture of candies wrapped in blue, pink, green, silver, gold, and purple foil. My favorites are those in pink and gold, so it's easy to pick them out with one hand while I type with the other.

The other day I also noticed very cute kitten-decorated boxes of chocolate. Cat's Tongue Chocolate, I think it was labeled, from Stuttgart, priced at 1.00. A child would love the package ... so we suggest it as a special Halloween token to the youngster you are especially "sweet on."

In case you were surprised to hear Leon Zacher of Zacher's store in East Stroudsburg as a guest on our Wyckoff program this past Thursday, don't be. It has always been a Wyckoff policy to promote those things in this area which are good for the public ... and so we naturally wish to support the fashion show being presented tomorrow evening ... Tuesday, November 1st, at Pocono Manor Inn by Zacher's, in cooperation with the Business and Professional Woman's Club, for the benefit of the club welfare fund.

As a matter of fact, our store is among the many local businesses that has presented a beautiful door prize ... ours being a tooled leather handbag from Spain.

Mr. Zacher was high in his praise to me of Mr. Wyckoff, for the good will he is spreading through his radio program. I too agree that our store's policy of public service is one much to be admired. My personal feeling, however, is that nothing but good can come from doing good ... and I can't help thinking what a wonderful world it would be if the idea were more universal.

Recently I had the delightful experience of interviewing the renowned writer and anthologist, Louis Untermeyer, for our Wyckoff program and Shopper column. Several days ago the mail brought me two autographed pictures of Mr. Untermeyer, and a delightfully witty note which begins, "Thank you for the double pleasure of your gracious letter and the gratifying (and much too flattering) column. You said the sort of things that no one should take too seriously but which one's poorly repressed vanity hopes someone, somehow, sometime may say. Even my wife, who is no encourager of over-inflated egos, smiled approval."

A charming man, whose most recent anthology of American literature has just been published in two volumes at 15.00 by the Encyclopedia Britannica.

You can relax and have a wonderful feeling, knowing that you and your family's health is protected... their comfort has been provided for... plus year 'round convenience... and... you will feel good that you have made a sound economical investment.

Joseph DeRenzis invites you to come in and see for yourself... no red tape, gimmicks, or high pressure salesmanship... he just wants to show you a quality product at prices you can afford to pay.

Even with the extended payment plan, from the time you call, there will be no "long waiting period" or "delayed installation." Your windows and doors will be installed within three weeks. Call HA 1-4690 now for more complete details.

Besides having quality storm doors and windows, Joseph G. DeRenzis and Son now carry a complete line of aluminum hardware. Aluminum nuts, bolts, screws, etc. Also weatherstripping and extrusions.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: We have an old cabinet of dark mahogany that I would like to lighten in order to match some modern furniture we bought recently. I have been told that a commercial bleach is best for this kind of job. Can you give me some advice on the matter?

ANSWER: Yes, a commercial bleach generally will do a better job than a homemade bleach. You will have to get down to the bare wood with a paint-varnish remover. After you do this, you may discover that the mahogany actually is a great deal lighter than you thought it was. All bleaches are strong, so be sure to wear rubber gloves while working. The most important part about bleaching is to follow the instructions on the label of the brand you purchase, since there are some variations in method. If it appears that you may have a difficult job making a perfect match with your new furniture, you might try a little trick sometimes used by professional wood finishers. They bleach the wood lighter than necessary, then using a non-grain raising stain to get it to the desired tone. When the stain has dried thoroughly, apply a very light coat of shellac before putting on the new finish.

Signal Depot's 'Grandma' Retires After Fine Career

"GRANDMA" retired Saturday at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

"Grandma" is 66-year-old Mrs. Katherine Herring, of Tannersville, who for the past six years has been repairing radar sets in the depot's Maintenance division.

An expert mechanic, she began her Government service at the Richmond, Va., Ordnance Depot during World War II. Her job was to install tail lights in jeeps, grind valves and fit bushings into wrist pins.

The nickname of "Grandma" was given to her by a co-worker at that time. It has stuck with her on every job since.

The tag is no misnomer. She has seven living children and 13 grandchildren.

Born in Virginia

Grandma was born in Massies Mills, Va., and attended Fleetwood High School nearby. Following graduation, she took courses in education at the Virginia State College in Harrisburg.

Before and shortly after her first marriage at age 20, she taught all the elementary grades in a one-room schoolhouse in Nelson County, Va.

Married to Guy Brydge, they settled down on a farm in Augusta County, where they had 12 children. Of the seven alive today, six live in or near Baltimore, and one lives in Salem, Va.

Mrs. Herring's husband was killed in a train accident in 1936.

With practically no income, Grandma had to raise her family on what she could earn by sewing for neighbors. Usually this work was done at night after all the children had gone to bed.

Many days, Grandma recalls, all she had to feed the family was oatmeal — for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Her personal hard times have not impaired Grandma's cheerful approach to the world. Always a very religious person, she firmly believes there is a design and purpose for everything that happens on this earth.

Read Bible

Exhausted after a day plus half a night's work during the period following her first husband's death, she always took time to read a few pages in the Bible before dropping off to sleep.

One Friday evening in Richmond, while attending a Baptist service, she was prompted to drop her last dollar in the collection box. "I didn't know where our next meal was coming from," she says. "But something inside told me to do it."

The next day a man appeared at the front door carrying a large box of groceries. "I didn't know this man," she says. "I had never seen him before in my life."

Mrs. Herring married again in 1947.

Her husband, an ex-sailor, was William Herring. He died of pneumonia in 1947.

Grandma, who had quit her Government job after her second marriage, went back to work — this time at the U. S. Navy shipyard in Providence, R. I. She worked as a burner, cutting metal to precise dimensions.

The Daily Record, The Stroudsburgs, Pa.—Monday, Oct. 31, 1960

"I loved that job," she says. In fact, I've loved every job I've ever had."

In May of 1953, she transferred to the Baltimore Signal Depot, where her job title was trades helper. Her duties were to dismantle equipment, clean the parts and reassemble them. "I like working with my hands," she says. "When I first went to work for the Government, I didn't tell them about my schooling. I was afraid they'd put me in an office. I couldn't stand that — it's too confining."

Grandma has been active in the depot's welfare activities, serving as chairman for her shop in the Toys for Tots, Community Chest and blood drives.

Won Several Awards

She has also won several awards for beneficial suggestions submitted under the Depot's Incentive Awards Program.

At the Officers' Club on the post last Friday evening, Grandma was feted to one of the best-attended retirement parties in the depot's history. Almost all of her more than 60 co-workers were there plus other employees from every section of the depot. She was showered with gifts, including a hand-carved jewelry box and a group photo of all the employees in her shop.

Her supervisor, Sam Moran, summed up everyone's feelings on the occasion. "There isn't anyone here, Grandma, who doesn't love you dearly," he said.

Grandma tried to keep back the tears. "This has been the best party I've ever been to in my life," she said. "I'm going to miss you all to death."

She left yesterday for Baltimore, where she will make her home with a married son and two grandchildren.

Putting Money To Work

By William A. Doyle

Q. We own our home, free and clear, have adequate insurance, money in a savings account and own a few shares each of American Telephone & Telegraph, General Motors, Middle South Utilities, Bank of Delaware and National Vulcanized Fibre.

My husband recently received a $2,000-a-year increase in salary. We want to put this money to work to meet the future college expenses of our sons, ages 10, nine and five. I argue that we should invest in Common stocks of individual companies. My husband feels we should buy shares of a mutual fund. What do you advise?

A. First some words of congratulations — on getting your family financial position so nicely arranged at what must be an early stage in life, on your previous investment choices and, by all means, on your husband's big salary increase.

You two are certainly in a position to invest. You have a good firm financial foundation. Now is the time to start planning to meet college costs, which can be staggering. Unfortunately, too many parents wait until it's too late.

A steady investment program in either good common stocks or shares of a good mutual fund will serve your purposes. Either way, your investment should outpace that demon inflation that bothers all of us.

You already own good stocks. So, it's natural for you to favor buying more individual common stocks.

However, when you invest in shares of a mutual fund, your investment is managed by professionals. You become the indirect owner of all the securities the fund holds in its investment portfolio.

That reduces the risk. And that's mighty important, when your investment is aimed at meeting college costs.

Nevertheless, the decision on whether to buy individual securities or shares of a mutual fund should be made by each family. No outsider can make it for you. Q. I have been thinking about buying shares of a certain mutual fund. But I don't like the idea of paying 8½ percent of my purchase price in commission. Can I save this commission if I deal directly with the home office of the mutual fund?

A. No. You have to pay the commission. No matter how you place your order, some broker will get credit for the order and collect a portion of the commission charged to you.

Before you get steamed up about this, I had better point out that it's all covered by the Investment Company Act of 1940. If a mutual fund makes a continuous offering of its shares (as most mutual funds do) and has a commission charge, all buyers of the shares must pay that commission charge.

Of course, if you buy a large number of shares, the commission charge is scaled down.

And, finally, there are about 20 mutual funds which do not have a commission charge on the purchase of their shares. The shares of those "no-load" funds are sold at the net asset value each share is backed up by.

HELP MAKE HIS DREAMS COME TRUE...

He wants to be an architect, perhaps a scientist, but will he get the chance?

Many of our colleges are already overcrowded and applications are expected to double in the next ten years. Will there be room for him?

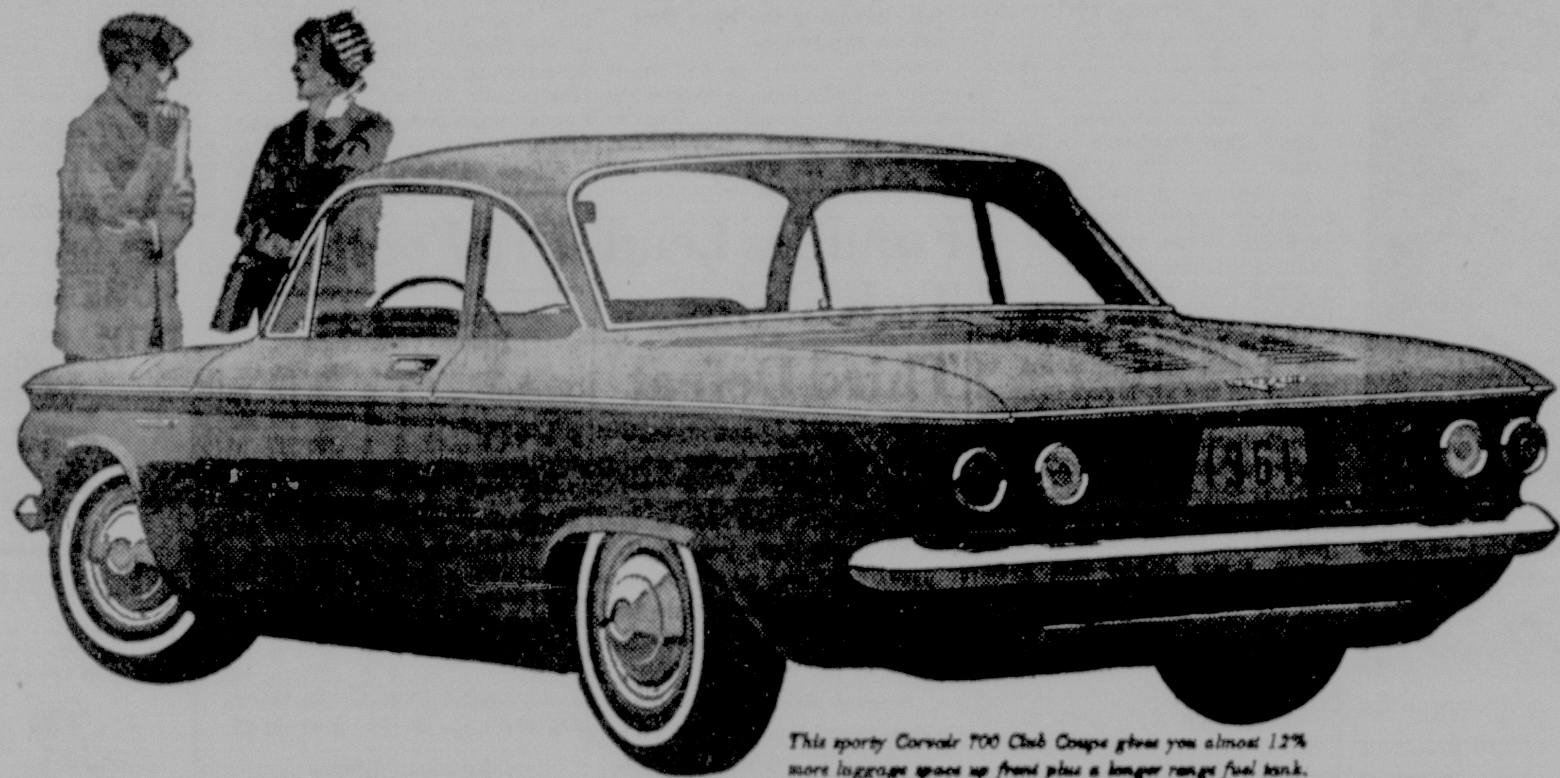

Talented teachers are being lured away by high salaries in business and industry. Will there be a qualified person to guide him?

Spiritually, culturally and materially, we as a nation cannot afford to be second-rate. The college of your choice needs financial aid now. Give generously.

High Scoring Sunday Browns Gain Top Spot As Cards Ray Giants

BOBBY Mitchell, the speedster of the Cleveland Browns' offense, turned passer Sunday and sent his club into a first place tie in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. The Green Bay Packers showed they can win on the road as well as at home and the New York Giants showed they are vulnerable, both on offense and defense.

Those were the highlights of one of the goofiest and highest-scoring NFL Sunday programs that have come along in quite a while. Not to be outdone, the American Football League's two-game card saw both divisional leaders beaten by narrow margins.

Mitchell, the outside runner in Cleveland's one-two ground gaining combination, tossed the first touchdown pass of his pro career and caught a pass that set up a score as the Browns whipped the Washington Redskins 31-10. The victory put Cleveland into a first-place tie with the Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference. Each has a 4-1 record, though tied, threw five passes into the hands of St. Louis Cardinal defenders and absorbed a 20-13 defeat. The Giants also fumbled the ball away three times in one of their most inept performances. They dropped to third place at 4-1-1.

The Packers, who had won three out of four at Green Bay and Milwaukee, ventured into Pittsburgh for their first road game and left with a 19-13 victory, earned by Paul Hornung's kicking. That kept them a game ahead of the Baltimore Colts, who lassoed the Dallas Cowboys 45-7 with Johnny Unitas swinging the rope, in the Western Division.

Other Games
In the other NFL games, Los Angeles outscored Detroit 48-35 for its first victory of the season and San Francisco downed the Chicago Bears 25-7.

In the American League, the Buffalo Bills handed the Houston Oilers their second defeat of the season, 25-24, and the Dallas Texans clung to an early lead just long enough to edge the Denver Broncos 17-14.

Denver's defeat dropped the Broncos into a tie for the Western Division lead with the Los Angeles, which beat Boston 45-17 Friday night. Houston, with a 5-2 record, remained well in front of the New York Titans, 28-17 losers to Oakland on Friday.

Warrior Booters Score 3-0 Upset Over Unbeaten Eagles

EAST Stroudsburg State College's soccer team upset previously unbeaten Lock Haven 3-0 at Normal Hill Saturday.

The Warriors, who upped their record to three wins, three losses and a tie, scored a single goal in the second period and added two more in the last frame. Lock Haven entered the game with a 6-0 mark, including wins over Pitt and Slippery Rock.

But the Bald Eagles managed only 20 shots against the Warrior defense, while East Stroudsburg pot off 37 scoring attempts.

Early Lead
Barry Wray staked East Stroudsburg to a 1-0 lead at the seven minutes mark of the second play.

Wray outtraced Lock Haven goalie Hal Freeman for a loose ball in front of the Eagle cage and rammed home the shot.

Ernie Howe made it 2-0 early in the fourth period. The Baltimore All-Americans connected on an angle shot and freshman Gene Collins ended the scoring with only 45 seconds left in the game.

Collins, who replaced Paul Grube near the end of the game, scored on an assist from Howe. The Warriors have three more games. They face Wilkes Tuesday at home and are also at home Saturday against Millersville. East Stroudsburg closes its season Nov. 5 at Elizabethtown.

Nazareth Knocks Bangor From Unbeaten Ranks 7-0

By Armon Williams

A SCORING punch in the last twenty-five seconds of the first half was the deciding factor of the hard fought football game between the Nazareth and Bangor High and the Blue Eagles of Nazareth High.

The contest, played Saturday afternoon at the Nazareth field, placed the Blue Eagles in undisputed possession of first place in the Lehigh Northampton league race and dumped Bangor from the top spot as well as out of the undefeated ranks this season.

A 61-yard pass and run featuring the throwing of Lynn Rothrock and the catching and running of Jeff Marsh, Nazareth speedster and the conversion of Bill Shook spelled the 7 to 0 doom for the Slaters of Bangor. Bangor had smashed and ground out yardage all during the first half over the Blue Eagles. In fact had amassed six first downs and 86 yards from scrimmage to the Blue Eagle one first down and just 11 yards from scrimmage.

As the second quarter got underway Nazareth got under way and moved to Bangor 17. Bangor started a third march, registering first downs on the 29, and 45 and again on the Nazareth 44 yard line. Held for downs the Slaters kicked out the Nazareth 18.

An exchange of punts gave

Bangor possession on its own 29 yard line. In two running plays the Slaters made nine yards and elected to kick the ball going to the Nazareth 39. At this point, with 25 seconds left in the half Nazareth grounded two passes and on third down completed the 61 yard pass and run of Rothrock to Marsh, the only scoring of the game.

In the second half following the kickoff, Nazareth moved for three consecutive first downs but was forced to give up the ball on the Bangor 20.

The Slaters in turn put together a four first down drive that lost steam and burned out on the Nazareth 25. Neither team could mount a sustained drive in the last portion of the game. The only run of any account was Phil Falcone's 32 yard scamper to the Nazareth 43 but Nazareth put the damper on this motion as Bob Freeman intercepted Bob Dawe's pass and returned to the Slater 23, where moments later the game ended.

Late Field Goal Fails

Hal Myers Injured In Eastburg 14-12 Defeat

"I'LL BE AT practice Monday," Harold Myers said, as he lay on an examining table in the emergency room of the Monroe County General Hospital.

Only a short while earlier Myers had been told that two of his ribs were fractured. And even though the ribs had been strapped he was in so much pain that he had to be helped off the table.

Myers was injured early in the second period of East Stroudsburg High School's 14-12 loss to Hellertown Saturday night at Memorial Stadium. He won't be able to practice today and he will not play Saturday against Port Jervis. However, there is a chance he may play against Nazareth the following week or in the Inter-Boro game on Thanksgiving morning.

Switch Worked
Myers, switched from halfback to fullback last week to give the Cavaliers more striking power, was on his way to one of his outstanding performances when the injury happened.

He lived up to his "Mach 2" nickname by racing 87-yards for a touchdown on a kickoff and in seven carries gained 50-yards.

On the play he was injured, he gained 12-yards on an end sweep. Myers apparently was struck by a knee when he was tackled by several Hellertown players. The Cavaliers were trailing 7-6 when Myers left the game.

STAND-IN SPILLED—Bill Bonser (44), who replaced Harold (Mach 2) Myers in the second quarter, when Myers was injured, is brought down after a short gain by Bob Grubb (11) of Hellertown. Jim Steel moved from halfback to Myers' fullback spot after the injury and Bonser played halfback. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

IF JACK GREGORY faces towards Roxbury, N. J. High School at noon for the next week and bows, it will be understandable.

For it was two Roxbury graduates, Toby Barkman and Russ Rogers, who played leading roles in East Stroudsburg State College's 21-20 "cardiac special" win over previously unbeaten Bloomsburg Saturday at Normal Hill.

Barkman, who fumbled twice before he turned on the heroics, hauled in a 42-yard pass from quarterback Bill Lewis for the Warriors' second touchdown and blasted off right tackle for one yard and East Stroudsburg's tying score.

Rogers, booted three extra points, including the game-winning conversion, that was never in doubt from the second it left his toe.

Biggest Crowd
An estimated 4,000 people, the largest crowd ever to watch a football game at East Stroudsburg, saw the Warriors roar from behind for two touchdowns in the last period, to win the homecoming game and reduce the number of unbeaten teams in the state to two, West Chester and Albright. Bloom had won five in a row before Saturday.

Gregory was reluctant to single out any players for praise, however. "Print the program if you want to know who won the game for us," he said, "It was every one of them that did the job, including the boys that sat on the bench."

Gregory, who rarely takes credit for anything, also praised his assistant coaches, Charlie Reese and Mort Hockheiser. "They did a tremendous job getting the boys ready for the game," he said.

The second year coach stayed only briefly after the game to talk to his players and hundreds of alumni, who had returned to the campus for the homecoming game. Gregory, Reese and Hockheiser drove to Lock Haven, (a four-hour ride) to scout the Indians-Lock Haven game. The Warriors play Courtland next and close the season against Indiana. Kenney Welgoss, Gregory's student coach, scouted Courtland Saturday.

Bloomsburg, which has come from behind for four of its five wins, appeared to have pulled a similar trick, as the game moved into the final period.

The Huskies spotted East Stroudsburg a 7-0 lead early in the first period of the game, when Walt Snyder, getting his first quarterback starting assignment of the year, pegged a 21-yard scoring strike to end Mo Barber.

But for the next two quarters the game belonged to Bloom and the Huskies roared for three touchdowns, to take a 20-7 lead into the last 15-minute segment.

Penalty Try
Halfback Johnny Johnson circled right end for seven yards and six points with 9:27 left in the second period and quarterback Dick Rohrer lofted a 47 yard touchdown pass to the first period of the game. Scott, who made several fantastic catches in the game, missed the second extra-point try. He also failed on his first attempt but a roughing the kicker penalty, one of five such penalties in the game, gave him a second chance and he connected.

The Huskies final tally came at the beginning of the third period. A Rohrer to end Stan Hugo pass, good for 21 yards, moved the ball to the Warrior one and after two tries at the line, Rohrer went over on a quarterback sneak.

Scott, who had connected on only four conversion attempts this season, ran for the extra-point.

Minutes later Bloom had another touchdown opportunity. But the Warriors held on their two yard line and stalled the drive.

Apparently it was the spark the Warriors needed. With Lewis running the team, East Stroudsburg moved to the Huskie 42 in six plays and Lewis unloaded the six-point bomb.

Bloom ended the game with

Fumbles Lead To Knights Third Defeat

PEN ARGYL High dropped its third Lehigh-Northampton League contest Saturday as the Wilson Boro Warriors rolled to a 21-0 win at Weona Park, Pen Argyl.

About 1,500 fans watched as the visitors took a 7-0 half time lead and then sealed the win with two scores in last half.

Several Green Wave fumbles paved the way for the Warriors to capture the win. As a result the Warriors closed in on the L-N loop leaders. A first period fumble resulted in the visitors lead, as Ray Mammiano bulled over the goal from one yard out. The score climaxed a 25-yard maneuver as the period was coming to a close. Pen Argyl is now 3 and 3 for the season.

Fumbles Hurt
Head coach Dick Wolford said that "over apprehension" played a great deal in the fumbling. "There was too much desire on the part of the ballplayers" the mentor reported.

The light-footed backs moved too fast for the plays, he said, before they had proper control of the ball.

Another drawback, Wolford said, was that pass defense was not effective. But he has hopes of correcting the situation prior to the Knights' tilt with Hellertown this weekend at Hellertown.

Entries High For Livestock Exposition

HARRISBURG—Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition officials announced yesterday that 3,249 animals have been entered for the Nov. 7 through 11 event.

Beef cattle entries total 732, sheep 1,325 and swine 1,192.

Sheep and swine entries are the heaviest ever in the four-year-old open livestock show. With the national Suffolk show being held with the exposition, Suffolk sheep entries are heaviest at 153 head. Next are Southdown with 118 and Cheviot with 117. Sheep feeders will show 72 market wethers and four truckloads of 15.

Angus breeding cattle entries total 171. Polled Herefords 153, Shorthorns 103, and Herefords 95.

One hundred steers are entered in the junior show, striving for the premium price normally paid when the grand champion 4-H or FFA steer is auctioned. There are 36 animals in the open steer class.

Swine Department
In the swine department, Yorkshires lead with 114 entries, followed closely by Berkshires with 111. There are 376 individual market barrows and 11 truckloads of ten barrows to be shown.

In the popular carcass show, 64 barrows have been entered, 64 wethers and 24 steers.

Owners of the 3,249 animals will be striving for nearly $80,000 in premiums and awards. Livestock breed associations are offering special prizes and awards to champions and other winners.

The Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition is held in the State Farm Show Building in Harrisburg. Admission to all portions of the exposition is free.

Change In SS Laws Announced

AN IMPORTANT change in the Social Security laws affecting Social Security coverage for employees of certain organizations was announced yesterday by R. P. Brownell, Director of Internal Revenue for the Scranton District.

Brownell said that the Social Security Amendments of 1960, approved Sept. 13, eliminate the requirement that a religious, charitable, etc. organization may file waiver certificate, Form SS-15, to cover employees under Social Security only if two-thirds of the employees concur. Thus, an organization may, after Sept. 13, elect Social Security coverage by filing Form SS-15 even though less than two-thirds of its employees, or none, concur.

Will Continue
However, taxes for social security under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act will continue to apply only to employees hired or re-employed after the quarter in which the certificate is filed. He added:
"As in the past, Form SS-15 must be accompanied by a list of concurring employees on Form SS-15a. If no employee concurs, an organization should make a statement to this effect in writing, and submit along with Form SS-15 to the District Director of Internal Revenue, Scranton."

Dear Abby

Grass Is Always Greener...

Dear Abby: I have a cute and vivacious friend (I don't really consider her a "friend," but if I called her what I think she is you wouldn't use my letter).

Anyway, this "friend" makes a habit of cultivating women friends in daytime so she can get next to their husbands at night. She has a husband of her own but he is like a lump of lead. She gives me this, "Let's all four of us get together for dinner," bit and before I know it, I am stuck with her husband and she is dancing with mine. I just found out she has done this with other couples.

My husband thinks she is "fun" and now I can't shake her. How can I break up this foursome without letting on to my husband that I am—

JEALOUS

Dear Jealous: What's wrong with letting your husband know you are frankly jealous? It might delight him to learn you refuse to share him with another woman. Chill this "friend" in the daytime and cook her goose at night by being especially attentive to your own husband.

Dear Abby: I am a 13-year-old girl who sometimes sits for a family who has a three-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy. When I sit there I have more trouble with the 17-year-old boy than I do with the three-year-old girl. If you know what I mean, I don't want to make trouble for this boy, but I hope they never ask me to sit for them unless they take their son with them. How can I get out of sitting there without getting him in trouble?

SCARED

Dear Scared: Maybe this boy needs to get into a "little trouble" now in order to stay out of a lot of trouble later. If you are asked to sit there again, refuse, and don't be afraid to tell why.
